About CMHDARN

The Community Mental Health Drug and Alcohol Research Network (CMHDARN) is a partnership project between the Mental Health Coordinating Council (MHCC), the Network of Alcohol and other Drugs Agencies (NADA) and the Mental Health Commission of NSW.

CMHDARN was established in 2010 to broaden involvement of the community mental health and alcohol and other drugs sector in practice-based research and to promote the value of research and the use of research evidence in practice.

Its overall aim is to:

- improve the quality of service delivery and correspondingly, the outcomes for consumers of community-managed services, and
- promote increased understanding and awareness of co-existing mental health and alcohol and other drugs issues.

CMHDARN aims to facilitate the development of a culture of research by providing opportunities and context for the exchange of ideas, the sharing of resources, support and collaboration among community organisations and between community organisations and research bodies, including universities and research institutes. Communities of practice help foster continuous learning, shape critical thinking and enable innovative practices and approaches.

In order to build the research capacity of the mental health and alcohol and other drugs sectors, the Research Network shares information and engages with members via its website, workshops, forums, reflective practice webinars/webcasts and other activities.

About MHCC

The Mental Health Coordinating Council (MHCC) is the peak body for community managed mental health organisations in New South Wales.

Introduction: Why Showcase Research?

Research in its broadest sense is a contribution to knowledge. The purpose of this bibliography is to showcase the significant contributions to knowledge being made within and across our sectors by members of the Network of Alcohol and Other Drugs Agencies (NADA) and the Mental Health Coordinating Council (MHCC).

In community settings, and perhaps particularly where co-existing mental health and alcohol and other drug issues are core business, research is often regarded as a luxury that time poor, resource constrained organisations can ill afford. We need to draw into question the logic of this reticence. The sustainability and longevity of the community sector depend on innovation, knowledge creation and sharing.

Research in mental health and alcohol and other drugs has the potential to improve services, practices, and people's lives. What little we know about the nexus between mental health and alcohol and other drugs is in need of our attention. What we learn from research should be translated into better practices that are shared across projects, programs and between the mental health and alcohol and other drugs sectors, so that communities of practice emerge and the potential of all new knowledge is maximised.

Building research capacity involves showcasing research engagement and successes. This document aims to share research developed by, and with, the mental health and alcohol and other drugs NGO sectors.

Research Showcase provides a bibliography of largely peer-reviewed research published by MHCC and NADA member organisations and CMHDARN members covering a range of areas of practice. The bibliography is organised into the following thematic areas, although there is often considerable overlap between these areas:

- Co-existing issues
- Alcohol and other drugs
- Mental health
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander
- Homelessness
- LGBTIQ+ (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, questioning and intersex communities)
- People from non-English speaking backgrounds
- Rural and remote communities
- Young people
- Conference papers and reports that are not yet peer-reviewed but may well result in peer-reviewed publication in the future.
